poetry can be for individual pleasure just like any art form can be following the individual heart and the artist's whims and fancies and then the world is free to accept or reject it even in that there is something of society that the artist creates no work of art exists in a vacuum the common lament is that there are not enough poets and too many politicians but it is equally true that there are poets lurking in every hidden corner of a home waiting to be discovered we aren't a dead poet's society not yet that itself should give any country or culture hope this is what essentially made us at cocoa butter come up with the idea of a poetry competition that would result in an anthology the poems featured in this anthology were selected from the entries received in the all india poetry competition 2020 organized by cocoa butter the idea behind the competition was to discover new and emerging voices of poets the bouquet of poems represents a wide variety of styles and themes and are written by poets from all over india
